HCI International 2011 invites you to participate in the international forum for the dissemination and exchange of up-to-date scientific information on theoretical, generic and applied areas of Human- Computer Interaction (HCI). The Conference will be held on 9-14 July 2011, at Hilton Orlando Bonnet Creek, Orlando, Florida, USA.

This year a total of 4039 individuals from academia, research institutes, industry and governmental agencies from 67 countries have submitted contributions to the Conference, and 1318 papers and 232 posters that were judged to be of high scientific quality are included in the program.

The Conference Proceedings, comprising papers and the extended poster abstracts to be presented at the Conference, are published by Springer in a 23-volume set in the Lecture Notes in Computer Science (LNCS), Lecture Notes in Artificial Intelligence (LNAI) and the Communications in Computer and Information Science (CCIS) series. They are also available on-line through the SpringerLink Digital Library, readily accessible by all subscribing libraries around the world.

To date, about 1800 people have already registered for the Conference and we expect that this number will increase further in the weeks to come, for this promising unique international event.

The Conference will also feature a technical exhibition of the latest technologies and related services. In conjunction with the conference, 22 pre-conference half-day and full-day tutorials will be offered on HCI related topics by leading scientists and technologists.

Professor Ben Shneiderman (University of Maryland, USA) will be the keynote speaker at the Opening Plenary Session on Tuesday, July 11, 2011. His keynote address is entitled: "Technology-Mediated Social Participation: The Next 25 Years of HCI Challenges"
